

GPS measurements in ecological research

Contributed by Florian Bodescu
Monday, 09 March 2009
Last Updated Tuesday, 10 March 2009

Training on use of GPS measurements in ecological research

This training was performed by CESEC to sustain the research activities on FITORISC and PECOTOX projects. In field survey activities we can use the GPS technology to improve accuracy and relevance of our measurements. In following presentations you can find the main topics:

- 1. Spatial reference
- 2. GPS technology
- 3. Measurement sessions
- 4. Spatial analysis techniques